SISAL TRUST IS NEWEST OCTOPUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 5.—The department of justice today faces the unusual situation of having abundant evidence of the existence of a new trust and yet being in doubt as to its ability to prosecute the combination under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The new combination is the Sisal Trust. Sisal is the vegetable used to make twine for agricultural uses, such as reaping and binding. Sisal is grown almost exclusively in Yucatan, Mex. The trust, which admits that it has cornered the supply, is a Spanish Mexican organization. Unable to finance its corner, it has enlisted the support of a syndicate of American banks, chiefly New York and New Orleans institutions, according to the evidence before the department of justice.

Attorney General Gregory is considering the problem of whether this combination, which has for its object the cornering of a foreign product, and foreign owned staple, comes within the jurisdiction of American anti-trust laws.

When the department of justice initiated its investigation to determine whether a sisal monopoly existed, it was reported that the International Harvester Trust, one of the principal American users of sisal, was involved in the combination. The department has learned, however, it is stated, that the Harvester Trust is on the outside of the new trust and is anxious to have it dissolved.

BRITAIN CANNOT HAVE THE APPAM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 5.—Great Britain will be told that she cannot have the Appam. The state department has decided that as far as a war prize the British brought into Norfolk by Lieut. Berge and a prize crew comes under the provisions of the Prussian treaty of 1799 as amended in 1828. Therefore it cannot be the property of the British government. But Secretary Lansing is almost convinced that as a war prize the liner cannot remain in an American port indefinitely. He hopes to discuss with the president just what limitations must be put upon the present case. And when he does the decision will be communicated to the German government. Meanwhile Lieut. Berge and his men will be able to provision the liner and get her in perfect condition for a dash to sea should that be necessary later on.

Although the United States ratified the Hague convention, few of the present European belligerents did. And since the war began all of them have trampled roughshod over the most sacred of the agreements that were reached there. Because of this fact the United States will not be compelled to pay any serious attention to the formal demand filed in writing with the state department by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, demanding that the vessel be turned over to representatives of his country.

Officials quietly pointed out today that there were other considerations than mere international law that had to be taken into account in disposing of the Appam problem. Popular opinion has clothed the action of the Germans in sending the Appam through the guard line of British warships off the American coast with a glamour of approval. Berge has been applauded for his courageous treatment of his captives. To rob him of his prize and turn her back to British authority would be severely criticized throughout the country. And officials say that, inasmuch as the Prussian treaty has been invoked by the German ambassador, it will be a most popular move for the state department to accept its provisions in settling his case.

It was said at the state department today that a complete decision regarding the status of the Appam would not be reached before next week at the earliest.

CONGRESSMAN WARD FINDS MUCH TO DO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 5.—Those who may think the life of a congressman is an easy one would change their mind if they would spend a day in the office of Congressman Ward at Washington. In just one day, Monday last, the total number of letters received at Mr. Ward's office was 148 and practically all of those of such a nature as to necessitate the congressman's personal attention. The Twenty-seventh congressional district may be said to be the largest in New York state. Of the forty-three districts in the state, this district ranks third in population and third in point of area. The districts that outrank it in population are below the average in area and those that outrank it in area are below the average in population. Judging from the amount of business transacted through Congressman Ward's office it is safe to say it is also one of the most wide-awake and active districts. Mr. Ward's desire as expressed on many occasions of being the greatest possible usefulness is manifestly being gratified as shown by the fact of the people from every quarter of the district taking up with him matters of general or individual importance which may be properly taken care of through his official capacity.

Innumerable matters, such as pension claims, claims for pension increases, rural delivery routes, establishment of new post offices (one just established in Sullivan county between Neversink and Aden) information regarding civil service positions, stocking of streams, agricultural bulletins and other agricultural matters, securing various government publications, information regarding federal pension claims, petitions for presentment before congress, inquiries regarding pending legislation, passports, etc., are daily handled at the congressman's office. Matters before the committee on agriculture, of which Mr. Ward is the only member from New York state, take considerable time of the congressman. The committee meets every morning at ten and adjourns in time for the convening of congress at noon.

Mr. Ward says he is working enthusiastically to be of every possible use to the people who he represents and that they can't work him too hard to suit him. Being on the committee of agriculture he is in a good position to take care of requests from farmers regarding any form of matter.

BOMBS USED IN OTTAWA FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 5.—That time bombs placed in different parts of parliament house exploded during the fire that was raging in the building and helped destroy the magnificent Gothic structure, was the assertion made today by members of parliament who fled for their lives while the flames were bursting about them. These declarations were corroborated by Fire Chief Graham who said that he had heard of distinct explosions such as would have been caused by infernal machines, while his men were fighting the fire.

The theory that enemy agents have opened a campaign of terrorism in Canada, of which the destruction of parliament house was the first act, has been strengthened by the burning of the plant owned by Grand-Holden-Graham, Ltd., which was wrecked by fire last night. The factory has been turning out equipment for Canadian soldiers and Canadian officials openly expressed the belief today that the fire which destroyed it was of incendiary origin.

VILLA AGAIN HEADS AN ARMY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Presidio, Tex., Feb. 5.—General Francisco Villa and a small but well equipped army are marching northward to attack the Mexican town of Ojinaga, just across the border, according to word that reached here today. American military forces in this section were strengthened today to prevent any violation of the neutrality of the United States.

Villa and his forces were reported last night to have arrived at the town of Bosque Bonita, twenty miles west of Ojinaga and to have seized cattle and food from inhabitants of that section.

Carranza soldiers under command of General Jose Rojas are digging trenches about Ojinaga. Machine guns have been placed to command all approaches to the town.

STREET FORCE PAY NOT TO BE REDUCED

Rumored Cut in Pay Did Not Materialize at Public Works Board Meeting—Streets to Be Oiled This Summer—Other Business Transacted.

A rumor that the Board of Public Works intended reducing the pay of the members of the street force from $2 a day to $1.75 caused more than unusual interest in the meeting of the board held on Friday afternoon at the city hall, but if such had been the intention of the board it was not brought up at the meeting which was attended by the full membership of that body with Mayor Canfield presiding. The mayor was asked regarding the rumor before the board met and said that he had heard nothing about the matter and that if any such resolution was passed he would promptly veto it.

It was brought out that the plan adopted last summer by the street department in oiling the city streets would be carried on again this summer when the principal traffic streets will be oiled.

Representatives were present at the meeting from companies that had sold the city supplies for street purposes and called attention to the fact that it would be better for the board to place a blanket order as soon as possible for the material needed this summer on the city streets so as to secure the present market price, as the market was more likely to go up than down. The matter was referred to the street committee.

To Avoid Delay.

Clyde B. J. Hornbeck of the fire board wrote that that body would like the board to notify Fire Chief Chubb when streets were closed to traffic so as to avoid delay or accident in responding to fire alarms. Commissioner Dederick moved that the superintendent inform the fire chief whenever any street repair work was going on so that the street could be avoided by the fire apparatus in responding to alarms. The resolution was carried.

Are Light on West Chestnut Street.

Alderman Peter A. Kullmann of the Eighth Ward wrote calling attention to the urgent need of an arc light on West Chestnut street near the Young residence as one of his constituents had fallen on a walk due to the darkness in that vicinity. After considerable discussion it was brought out that the city pays the Kingston Gas & Electric Company $80 for each arc light while an incandescent light costs $16. The matter of the new arc light was referred to the committee on lighting to investigate.

Proposed Hurley Avenue Sewer.

City Engineer Codwise reported in regard to the sewer on Hurley avenue and estimated the cost to construct the sewer in that part of the street not sewered to be $2,875.75. He also estimated that it would cost more to make connections from sewer to curb, making connections 25 feet apart, than it would to construct the sewer itself. The cost of connections he estimated at $4,762, or a total cost of about $8,000. He suggested that about $600 in making connections could be saved by laying the sewer under the sidewalks on each side of the street. It was brought out that some of the property owners objected to having a sewer laid and that it was necessary to build the sewer at the present time.

The Storm on the Sea.

MIDDLETOWN LOST TO KINGSTON TEAM

High School Players Rolled Up Big Score of 24 to 7 in Spite of Disadvantage Due to Unfamiliar Court.

In its first out of town game of the season Kingston High School handily defeated Middletown High School by a score of 24 to 7 last night before a large crowd in the gymnasium at Middletown. While the large court was a novelty to the local players they soon took its measurements and piled up basket after basket with a minimum of fouls. Some idea of the game may be learned by the number of fouls, only four being called on Kingston as against 16 on Middletown.

Principal F. J. Schumaker, who is in charge of athletics at the High School, was more than pleased at the splendid showing made against Middletown. He accompanied the players on the trip.

That the home team was outclassed by Kingston is shown by the tabulated score, as follows:

The Middletown police cannot locate Lane.

COMMON COUNCIL TO MEET MONTHLY

Charter Amendment to Be Sought in Legislature Permitting Change in Action on Claims Against City—Will Attend Patriotic Meeting.

The city fathers will meet every first and third Tuesday in the month in the future instead of Friday and as soon as the city charter is amended they taken at the regular meeting of the common council held on Friday evening when the report of the committee on laws and rules was read. Alderman-at-large Walter P. Crane presided with Aldermen Smith, McKittrick, Schick, Marquardt, Leverich, Parish, Fischer, Kullman, Shultz, Brown and Purvis present. The absentees were Aldermen Connolly and Hall.

The report of the committee stated that it seemed to be the majority opinion of the aldermen that the body hold one regular meeting a month and that on some other night than Friday. The charter provides, however, that the council meet at least twice in each month. If the charter may be made to conform to this change the committee suggested that the rule regarding meetings be changed to read: "Regular meetings of the common council shall be held on the first Tuesday of each month at 8 o'clock."

Other meetings may be appointed by resolution of the common council. Several other slight changes were also suggested.

Some discussion followed and it was brought out that there are some minor changes to be made in the city charter and that the change in meeting nights of the common council could also be included.

Alderman Schick moved that the report be adopted and in regard to the change in meeting night that the council meet on the first and third Tuesdays until the first of May, after which, if the charter was changed, meet the first Tuesday of each month, which was unanimously carried.

It is expected that the changes suggested in the city charter will be made before May 1.

The claim was referred to the auditing committee and the corporation counsel.

An Echo of Boyce Case.

An echo of the Boyce case was heard when the auditing committee reported it had audited the bill of Judge Henry of Connecticut for $177. It will be remembered that Emanuel Metzger, when corporation counsel employed Judge Henry to look after the city interest when the case of the surety company who had furnished Boyce's bond came up in Connecticut.

The city engineers' payroll for three men amounting to $72 was also audited and ordered paid.

City Treasurer Doremus reported the special Sterling street sewer assessment of $203.35 had been collected in full.

Alderman Parish moved that the are light on the Strand in front of the Newland residence be moved 100 feet the other side of the Ulster and Delaware crossing. Referred to the board of public works.

To Raise City Hall Janitor's Pay.

It was brought out that the work of the janitor was increasing daily. The resolution was referred to the committee on finance ways and means.

Rev. Mgr. J. L. Reilly of Schenectady was read and on motion of Alderman Schick the invitation was accepted with thanks.

The meeting then adjourned.

OLD CAR BARN AS SCENE OF BOUT?

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 5.—The Willard-Moran bout may be staged in an abandoned car barn on March 17. Tex Rickard today reiterated that the price demanded by the Madison Square Garden people for the rental of their arena was too high and that he would put on the bout somewhere else.

"I offered the Garden people $6,000 for their place," said Rickard. They refused it. I'm through figuring on holding the battle there. I've got an old car barn in mind and we may stage the fight there.

"From what I can figure out now we can fix the barn up so that it will seat 20,000 persons," asserted Rickard. "I don't think the cost of transforming the place into a pugilistic battleground will be more than $10,000."

The location of the barn is believed near the Polo Grounds.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 5.—Although there were irregular changes in the leading stocks at the opening of the stock market today the tone was steady and there was an absence of nervousness that characterized the dealings yesterday afternoon. Some issues were in free supply, however. Marine preferred dropping 3 1/2 points to 73, and Crucible Steel after advancing 1/2 to 85 1/2 declined to 83 1/2. There was a wide opening in Distillers securities which opened at 50 1/2, equaling its high record of last October, and a fractional upturn was made in Mexican Petroleum which was in fair demand, selling at 104 1/2 but quickly reacting to 103 1/2. Baldwin Locomotive declined 1/2 to 109 1/2 and American Smelting after advancing to 100 declined to 98 1/2. New York Central opened 1/2 lower at 105 1/2 and changes in other issues were without importance.

The market closed firm. In the final dealings there was some brisk buying by room traders who had been among the heaviest sellers yesterday. Steel common, which had sold as low as 82 1/2, rose to 83. There was a brisk demand for both Baldwin Locomotive and Lackawanna Steel, those stocks ending with net gains of about 2 points. A strong tone was also shown in Studebaker, which closed about a point over yesterday's close. Distillers Securities after crossing 50, yielded under realizing to 49. Government bonds unchanged; others.

WHY THEY WANT MUNITIONS EMBARGO

Publicity Committee of Local Branch of American Independence Union Gives Reasons and Will Give More.

Editor The Kingston Freeman:

Sir:—The members of the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union have been requested to publicly state their reasons for their persistent efforts to induce our government to place an embargo on munitions of war. A few reasons are herewith submitted. They regard it as their moral duty as American citizens to insist that an embargo be placed by the American government on munitions of war:

1. Because supplying belligerents with weapons is active participation in the war. And participation in war without a just cause, without the country's call for defense against aggression, and without divine sanction and commission is murder. Wars of defense are divinely sanctioned. One of the highest and most sacred duties of the government of a country is to protect and defend the lives of the men, women and children entrusted to its care. But we are not engaged in a war of defense, nor in war at all. And yet, professing to be at peace with all nations, we are taking active part in this war. We are helping to slay, and are thus slaying those whom we call our friends. Shedding human blood is a tremendously serious business. Before we aid in destroying untold thousands of human lives it should be clear beyond peradventure that we have not only the technical legal right, but also the moral duty to do so. Our exportation of arms and ammunition is forbidden by the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

2. Because international law permits the embargo. We have had it dinned into our ears that international law permits this trade in the tools of death. But our pro-ally friends have apparently forgotten to look at the other side of the shield. International law also permits the embargo. And the moral law, God's law written in the hearts of men, demands it. The law of nations has hitherto permitted and thus in a measure sanctioned the traffic in the things that kill. But "supremacy of law" is often the greatest moral right. The opium traffic was legal, but morally wrong. The slave trade was legally right, but morally wrong. Trafficking in the tools of death is legally right, but morally wrong.

3. Because, whilst international law has permitted this trade in munitions of war, it has never sanctioned this present traffic for the simple reason that this traffic has never before occurred in all history. It is a new, an innovation, in law and in history. The world's sense of justice will ever sanction it. It makes a neutral country the chief base of supplies for one set of belligerents. Lord Northcliffe said, "The United States is our most valuable ally."

4. Because Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden after the war had begun placed embargoes on arms and ammunition.

5. Because our own United States twice placed an embargo on the exportation of arms and ammunition to Mexico, and that during the progress of the war.

6. Because the statement that to lay an embargo after sufficient notice would constitute an unequal act against the Allies, whilst what we are now doing, and for over a year and a half have been doing, against the Central Powers is not an unequal act, is a false statement, by whomsoever it is made.

7. Because the only complaint the Allies could make if we placed an embargo would be: You are not helping us to defeat our enemies—something we have not the right, much less the duty to do; whilst the women and children and aged fathers and mothers of the Central Powers are even now making two complaints, or rather one complaint and one fearful charge: First, you are not helping us to defeat our enemies; secondly, you are helping to slay, and are thus slaying, our husbands, our fathers, our brothers, our sons and other providers, whom you call your good friends.

Another letter will follow.

Yours truly,

The Publicity Committee of the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union, Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 4, 1916.

"DIE WACHT AM RHEIN" THE UNDOING OF GERMAN TEACHER.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—"Die Wacht am Rhein" may be a good song to sing in Germany, but it is manifestly no song to teach to children in far off British Samoa. B. H. Sewade, who with his wife and children is now on his way to New York and from there to Germany has found out this little fact.

Sewade was a school teacher for ten years in what was German Samoa, but it is now under British control. When the war started the British authorities closed the school in which Sewade was teaching, to break off their education, went to Sewade's home for instruction. Among other things he taught them the German national song. This was too much for the British authorities, who ordered Sewade deported.

COLORS OF METEORS.

Three Stages Through Which They Pass to Reach the Earth.

An article by Alfred Wegener in the Scientific American offers an explanation of the marked difference of color observed in meteors. Up to an altitude of about forty-five miles the principal constituent of the earth's atmosphere is nitrogen. A second stratum of the atmosphere, extending up to about 125 miles, consists mainly of hydrogen. Still higher, Wegener himself has sought to prove the existence of a stratum consisting of an excessively light gas which he calls "geocoronium."

When entering the atmosphere from outer space meteors do not become luminous in the very tenuous "geocoronium sphere," but only when they enter the "hydrogen sphere," and most of them are dissipated before reaching the nitrogen atmosphere. The largest fireballs, however, penetrate deeper and may reach the earth or explode not far above it.

Dr. Wegener finds that the meteors that penetrate deep enough pass through three color stages—viz, yellow, white, green and deep red. The great majority exhibit only the first stage, in which the color (white, yellow, sometimes reddish) is that of the incandescent meteor itself. The green stage Wegener believes to be due to the incandescence of the hydrogen through which the meteor is passing, while the deep red stage is due to the incandescence of nitrogen in the lower atmosphere.

WHITE HOUSE LADIES.

They Wield Considerable Power, as a Rule, "Under the Rose."

Only those who have given the subject close consideration and have been familiar with it personally can have even a remote idea of the power of the women connected with the presidential administration, meaning the wives of the president, the vice president and the cabinet officers. This power of the women first began to be marked in President Andrew Jackson's time, and it has continued almost unabated up to the present hour. It is an unseen power. It is not proclaimed from the house-tops.

It takes some time for the wives of the cabinet officers to reach a fair footing with the wives of the president and vice president and among themselves. They come from different sections of the country and must accustom themselves to a vastly different environment, the official life of Washington. In a thousand little ways and in as many big ways they can make or mar, help or hurt, hasten or retard the policy of a presidential administration. They raised old hob in Jackson's time by attempting to boycott the wife of a cabinet officer, Mrs. Eaton, but Old Hickory, though not a ladies' man himself, stood valiantly and gallantly beside Mr. and Mrs. Eaton and declared that the wives of his other cabinet officers shouldn't rule his administration—"No, not by the eternal!" Jackson's favorite phrase in negating a proposition.—Exchange.

KEEPING CUT FLOWERS.

Methods by Which the Fading Process May Be Delayed.

Roses, carnations and orchids have been found to keep three times as long if a small quantity of sugar be added to the water, writes Mabel H. Wharton of Oakland, Cal., to Popular Mechanics. A small lump of starch has also been found beneficial. Other flowers begin to bleed as soon as they are cut, and the precious sap running out of the stem causes the cells to collapse immediately. To prevent this the end of the stem must be quickly closed, and this is best done by searing in a flame or by placing directly in hot water.

The florists of California go so far as to boil the stems of the brilliant poinsettias or Christmas flowers, for which they are so famous. The stem is first stuck through a large sheet of paper to prevent the steam from rising directly into the flower and injuring it. Carnations and chrysanthemums will keep almost twice as long if placed in fresh water daily, and a small piece is clipped from the ends of the stems each time. While cutting this piece off keep the stem under water so that no air bubbles are allowed to enter the stalk and thus retard the upward flow of water.

If large headed flowers, such as chrysanthemums or peonies, are to be sent some distance insure their arriving in good condition by wrapping each blossom separately in waxed paper.

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.

It Was Successfully Done Ages Ago at the Siege of Syracuse.

Blockading and blockade running is not a young war measure by any means. One of the earliest authentic instances of the practice dates back two centuries before the Christian era. Marcus Claudius Marcellus, commanding a powerful Roman army and an efficient fleet, laid siege to Syracuse, a rich city on the island of Sicily. Carthage, Rome's great rival on the north shore of Africa, one of the great sea powers of that time, was not at all pleased with the idea of Rome capturing Syracuse, a free city and probably a source of great revenue through trade with Carthage.

Syracuse was a well fortified city, and there seemed to be no immediate prospect of Rome taking it by storm. So Marcellus decided to starve its inhabitants into submission. He put a cordon of ships across the entrance to the harbor and arrayed his army on the land side so that no succor could come from without. But he had underestimated the boldness of the Carthaginians. There was no question of contraband in those days—conditional or other.

In their swift oar driven galleys the sailors of the African city easily eluded the ships set to watch the port and carried provisions and war material into the beleaguered city. So successful were the Carthaginians in getting supplies into the city—running the blockade—that had it not fallen through treachery it would have been enabled to hold out indefinitely. While blockades probably had been established before on a small scale, the blockade of Syracuse was one of the earliest instances where the efficiency of a blockade by sea was of vital importance in determining the success of war on an important seaport.—Munsey's Magazine.

LEGEND OF THE DONKEY.

Showing Why the Arabs Beat the Brute With Impunity.

In his article on his journey to Babylon, in Harper's, William Warfield tells a legend prevailing among the natives by which they justify beating of donkeys, but not horses.

"We stopped to change our mules. In the roadway before the khan sat a group of Arabs. A servant supplied them with little cups of tea from a rude samovar. We saluted them, and taking our places in the circle, we were served in turn. Some one in the dark doorway was thumping away on a drum. A boy came out of the khan beating a poor lame donkey with fly infested sores. I turned to one of my neighbors:

"Is it not cruel for that boy to beat a lame donkey in that way?"

"Effendi, it is the will of God."

"But you do not allow horses or camels to be beaten thus."

"Effendi, the donkey is not like the horse, nor yet is he like the camel. The reason is this: Upon a certain day the donkeys went before Allah and complained that they were grievously beaten by men, so that life was a greater burden than they could bear. Then said Allah: 'I cannot make men cease from beating you. It is no sin, neither does it cause them any great loss. But I will help you. I will give you so thick a hide that, however much you are beaten, you shall not suffer.'"

"So," said my informant, "it is of no consequence if men beat a donkey. So thick a skin did Allah give him that after he dies men use it in the making of drums, and the donkey continues to be beaten after death."

Effects of Frost.

An egg expands when it is frozen and breaks its shell. Apples contract so much that a full barrel will shrink until the top layer is a foot below the chine. When the frost is drawn out the apples assume their normal size and fill up the barrel again. Some varieties are not appreciably injured by being frozen if the frost is drawn out gradually. Apples will carry safely in a refrigerator car while the mercury is registering fully 20 degrees below zero. Potatoes, being so largely composed of water, are easily frozen. Once touched by frost they are ruined.—Northwest Trade.

The loss and regeneration of a girl of the slums rescued from a sordid life of depravity enacted with dramatic fervor by Brilliant Bessie Barriscale, filmdom's celebrated emotional star. A gripping story of moral uplift and the dawn of spirituality in a downtrodden victim of circumstances.

Laughter.

Laughter begins either with the mouth or the eyes. Then come the other muscular groups, and then come the vocal expressions of laughter, such as brays, cackles, sniggers, snickers, giggles, snorts, grunts, foghorn rumbles, yells, shrieks, guffaws, trills, chuckles, snuffles, and all sorts of peculiar bird notes and musical sounds.—From the B. Selling Articles is an expression in advertising which the general public puts down as a fake. Nevertheless it is true that to move slow selling goods, or to stimulate business, or to attract particular attention to their store at some specific time merchants do actually sell articles below, and at prices so near cost that the purchaser has the opportunity at that time to buy a much desired article at a price far below the price usually charged for that article.

I have gone through my stock and picking out articles here and there, have marked them at prices which if needed by you, it is to your advantage to buy these articles now. It is a rule with me to keep my prices low, but these articles have been marked from 25 per cent to 66 per cent below the regular retail value. They are too numerous to list. Come and see for yourself. You will be well repaid for your time and trouble.

Make the Manufacturer Help

Mr. Retailer, tell your manufacturers very plainly what kind of advertising helps you.

Tell them that advertising in this newspaper is read by the people of this city and sends customers to your store.

Tell them that it sells the goods.

Tell them that you are glad to co-operate with it by showing the goods when the advertising is running.

Tell them you are not interested in their national reputation, but they are mightily interested in the reputation their goods have right here in your city.

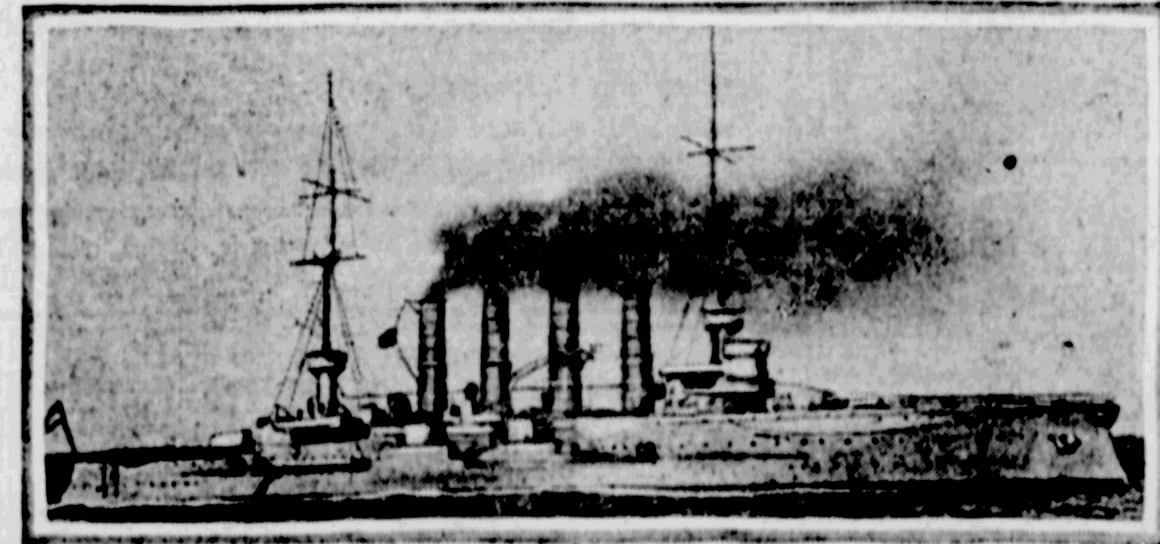

That local reputation means sales for you and for the manufacturer.

COMPLETE SATISFACTION

Just ask your friends who have been users and readers of The Freeman Want Ads how they found them and in almost every instance you will get the reply: "They always gave me complete satisfaction."

That is the way to judge of the merits or demerits of a thing—by asking those who know what it is worth. Its enemies will always give you only its demerits.

No one has a right to criticize until they have investigated, so before you criticize or condemn, give The Freeman Want Ads a fair trial.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Sarah Lent, wife of Robert Lent of Glasco, has been admitted to probate in the surrogate's court and letters of administration with the will annexed issued to John W. Lent, a son, Robert Lent, who was named as executor in the will, having died recently. The testatrix gives all her personal property to her husband. The use of all real estate is given to her husband during his lifetime, and at his death is given to their six children, David C. Lent, George H. Lent, John W. Lent, William L. Lent, Sarah Finger and Lilian L. Lent, except that the real estate is charged with the payment of $500 to John W. Lent, as consideration for his care and services rendered to his parents. The will was executed May 3, 1904, and witnessed by J. A. Clum of Glasco and the late Robert E. Sternberg of Saugerties. The value of the estate is $5,000 personal property. George F. Kaufman appeared for the administrator.

The will of Sarah Elizabeth Tillson of this city was admitted to probate. The testatrix bequeaths the sum of $2,000 to Charles H. Safford in trust for her granddaughter, Estelle Safford, at whose death the remainder of the trust fund is to be divided between Tracy Tillson and Irene Safford, children of the testatrix. Certain furniture and personal property also are given to Estelle Safford. Bequests of $100 each are made to Elizabeth Loreta Tillson, Faith Safford and Mayone Tillson, and personal belongings are bequeathed to Tracy Tillson. The sum of $50 is bequeathed to the cemetery corporation in whose cemetery the testatrix may be buried, for the perpetual care of her lot, and the balance of the estate is given to Tracy Tillson and Irene Safford, the former of whom is appointed executor. The will was executed January 28, 1915, and witnessed by Joseph M. Fowler and William F. Abernethy. The value of the real estate is $3,500 and the personal property amounts to $1,000. Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the executor.

Letters of administration on the estate of Daniel J. Pierce of Ellenville were issued to Earl W. Pierce and Harold D. Pierce. The personal property amounts to $30,000. Elsworth Baker of Hurleyville, Sullivan county, appeared for the administrators.

Letters of administration on the estate of Stefan Sumenich of this city were issued to Frederic Fischerman. The value of the estate is $175 personal property. Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the administrator.

In the estate of Thomas Jordan of this city, a petition for a judicial settlement was filed by Marcella Jordan, the executrix, and a citation was issued returnable February 15. Christopher A. Murray appeared for the petitioner.

SAP DOES NOT FLOW DOWN.

Brookside Grangers in Heated Debate With Lecturer Cromwell.

Frank Cromwell, a graduate of Cornell University, spoke to a good-sized number of the members of Brookside Grange at the meeting at Grange Hall Tuesday night on the subject of education. A chance observation of Mr. Cromwell's led to a discussion which occupied several hours and terminated only after midnight. It was about the theory of the sap in trees and other plants. Mr. Cromwell advanced the statement that the sap rose in the trees and plants and was absorbed for the nourishment of the tree and absorbed by evaporation and other processes, and did not rise in the spring and descend to its source again in the fall.

Many of the members of the Grange had not heard this theory before and were inclined to disagree with it, but on an explanation by Mr. Cromwell of the results of modern experiments and observations, agreed later that they had been brought to take a different view of the matter.

Would Change Parole Board.

Senator Charles J. Hewitt of Locke has introduced a bill at Albany changing the name of the board of parole to the "Parole Commission," which would legislate the present members out of office. The board is at present Democratic and the members have until 1917 to serve.

Farmers Pleased With Snow.

Farmers in the city Wednesday were pleased with the prospect of more snow, some of them declaring that they did not relish the idea of having the ground bare for the rest of the winter, as they foresaw that grass land and grain would not winter in good shape without a blanket of the beautiful.

SOME CHEAP MEAT DISHES.

The flank which is one of the cheap cuts of meat is very good when nicely cooked. Take two or three pounds, remove the tough skin and spread the meat with a well-seasoned force meat, using bread crumbs, herbs, parsley, minced onion and salt and pepper. Roll up and tie firmly to keep in shape. Have ready a pint of mixed vegetables, carrots, onion, celery and turnip. Place these in the bottom of a shallow baking pan with the meat on top with just enough water to cover; add a blade of mace and three or four cloves. Cover closely and cook slowly for four hours, basting the meat frequently with the liquor in the pan. When done remove the meat and vegetables to a hot dish and thicken the gravy with browned flour. Strain the gravy over the meat, removing the cloves and mace before serving.

Sour Beef.—This is a good way to treat tough beef. Take a pound and a half of lean beef from the shin cut it in small pieces and roll in flour. Brown the meat in a little bacon fat, then remove it and add to the same fat two tablespoons of flour; brown this also, then add slowly two cupsful of water or stock and stir until boiling hot. Put in the meat and cook slowly for one hour, then add two onions salt and pepper to taste and finally a tablespoonful each of Worcestershire sauce and vinegar. Continue the cooking until the meat is tender. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Beef in Casserole.—This is another method of cooking meat that is inclined to be tough. Take two pounds of the shin or round, wipe it carefully and lay in a casserole. Cover with a can of tomato, add two bay leaves and salt and pepper to season. Cook in the oven for two hours. Dish up the meat, thicken the tomatoes with flour and butter cooked together and serve the meat with potato pancakes. The acid of the tomato softens the tough fibers of the meat as does vinegar.

Thrill of Being Wet. There is something rudimentary and fundamental about having water splashed down upon one and getting completely and deliciously wet—not damp, not moist, but wet, wringing wet. You yourself when a child never enjoyed anything so much as your first drenching in an unforeseen and unavoidable rainstorm—the thrill of being wet, the cool drive of the water on your nose, into your sleeves and down your neck, and the joyous splash of soaked, water-logged boots. Even the tedium of being rubbed with alcohol, huddled up and warned you would catch your death did not diminish the event. You voted it better than the time you fell off the boat dock; it lasted longer.—Atlantic.

Criticism Implied. "He doesn't like my cooking," sobbed the three months bride, a tear on her long lashes. "I just know he doesn't. So there."

"What makes you think so?" her mother asked. "Has he said he doesn't like your cooking?" "No-no-o," stammered the bride. "Nonsense, child. It's just your imagination. I felt there was no basis." "There is a basis," the bride insisted tearfully. "I had been cooking the loveliest things for him for about two weeks, and then he told me he had decided to become a raw food faddist. Bo-hoo-o-o!"—Judge.

Dr. Johnson's Homeliness. Samuel Johnson was himself—and this is a quality rarely found in "plain" men—under no illusion as to his personal appearance. I see thee—and an ugly dog thou art!"—London Times.

If there is anything in the way of vital problems of the day left off the program for the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington next week, the delegates need not bother to hunt up the missing item. There are sufficient important subjects thereon to make the average gray matter turn to a deep purple hue if anything like a serious consideration of all of them were attempted. What does this country need to make the most of the commercial opportunities thrust upon it by war-halted Europe; what do business men want in the way of an "incomparable navy"; what shall we do with any rush of alien labor to these shores in the wake of the war; or what shall we do without such labor if it does not come across; what about vocational training; the railroad situation; the merchant marine; the presidential veto for appropriation items—about every question answers present on the roll call. It is certainly a most extended and varied bill of fare, so lengthy that any attempt to assimilate it entire would not only make the illusive "tired business man" actually tired but the whole country would be pretty much fagged as well.

In some ways this comparatively new national body, now in its fourth session, seems an enormously bulky force, almost too unwieldy to be of the greatest usefulness. With our singular possessions represented, as well as South American trade centers, the several thousand delegates comprise a pretty big assemblage, one that must get down to work quickly in order to get results. Two live features will be the President's speech, probably upon preparedness if no reverse motions are recorded on his mental film in the meantime, and the report on the same subjects of a committee representing all the bodies in the conference. Will the single track mind of the executive and the multi-railed system of the business men lead to the same destination? Will White House conclusions accord with those attained to high tension and direct from the five wires of the nation's business, in factory and store? It is the answers to these questions that add ginger to the prospective get together of Big and Little Business and give a zest otherwise lacking, to the convention where cut-and-dried subjects are discussed without the saving grace of novelty.

The possibility of constructing submarines capable of carrying cargoes to blockaded ports is not so fanciful as has been generally supposed. At least, Simon Lake, the inventor, whose judgment in such matters is unquestioned, has just taken out a patent on such a vessel. What the practical result will be remains to be seen. As everybody knows, German submarines have been able to make long trips in spite of the British blockade, and they could do the same on commercial as well as warlike errands. It may easily be that this war will be the last in which blockades will be employed. On the other hand, it is quite possible that some one will invent a device for catching submarines which will make their employment useless. There may be a parallel to the long contest between makers of guns and makers of armor, which is not by any means yet ended. It is certain, however, that submarine craft will be vastly improved, and the Government which watches their development most closely and is most prompt in adopting new ideas will have a considerable advantage in time of war. Unfortunately, we have now a Secretary of the Navy from whom not much in this line can be expected.

Coal consumers have reason to worry over the full page advertisements now running in the newspapers in which the anthracite operators go to particular pains to give their views with respect to the demands of the miners. The latter in a series of ten requests seek two year contracts, a 20 per cent wage increase, the eight hour day with overtime, full union recognition and many other changes in the present system originally laid down by the Anthracite Coal Commission named by President Roosevelt in 1902. To all of these, the operators make answer in effect that the demands are either unnecessary or unwarranted. Incidentally, the consuming public is given a warning, which is about all the consideration that seems to be coming to it, that any favorable action on the miners' claims means a corresponding jump in the retail price of coal. This manner of laying the case in advance before newspaper readers is a new departure and may help to inform people as to the merits of the controversy. But it is too much to hope for that all of the three parties to the coal proposition will be satisfied. The miners are continually wanting more and the public usually sides with them. Hence, the consumers must expect to pay the bill.

There was recently hauled into an Alabama court a little Irishman to whom the thing was a new experience. But he was unabashed and wore an air of a man determined not to "get the worst of it."

GREENWOOD LAKE TO RIVAL NORTHFIELD

Christian laymen of churches in New York and northern New Jersey announce a plan to create on Greenwood Lake a summer conference that will be, in some measure, another Northfield Conference, founded by the late Dwight L. Moody. The laymen in question are those who do personal work as superintendents of Sunday schools, presidents and secretaries of men's clubs, chairmen of missionary committees, heads of organizations for boys, lay evangelists and lay readers. The number of business and professional men who give volunteer Sunday work is said to be increasing rapidly in almost all religious bodies.

An option has been secured by the Seabury Society of New York, which is in charge of the plans, on Rocky Point Park, situated on the west side of Greenwood Lake, at the southern end, for $50,000, and the society announces subscriptions toward it of $26,000. A campaign is on at this time to secure the balance and so make possible a dedication of the site this coming summer. It may not be practicable to erect buildings and hold conferences this year, but the campaign includes the raising of funds to erect buildings for conferences guests, for a Rocky Point Club, and for a chapel of the Risen Lord. It is announced that the buildings to be erected are to be permanent and handsome.

A committee has been formed among Christian laymen representing many principal churches in New York, northern New Jersey, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, the field which the Greenwood Lake Summer plans aims to serve. The Seabury Society is composed of laymen in the Episcopal Church, and they have been at work some twelve or fifteen years. The Greenwood Lake plans aim, however, to share the fifteen weeks in summer with men of other Christian bodies, a week or ten days each, so that Presbyterians, Baptists, Lutherans and others may fill in the season.

The name chosen is Montanac—the Montanac Weeks and Week Ends, but there is also to be a Rocky Point Club, for the social life of the meetings. The new venture is a part of the new developments on Greenwood Lake, which include Awosting and Camp Inkowa, the latter the camp for girls established through the efforts of Miss Anne Morgan of New York. This city is represented on the Montanac Committee. The chairman of the general committee, Eugene M. Camp of New York, speaking of summer conferences and of the Greenwood Lake plans, said today:

"Volunteer workers in our churches are so busy both at that work and in their business and profession that the summer season is about the only one they can find to meet each other, and to meet local and national leaders. Hence it is that summer conferences are growing in importance and attendance. The Montanac conference will aim to co-operate with existing conferences in all respects."

"There are two particulars, however, in which the Greenwood Lake meetings will be different. One is that they will be for men. Most conferences are attended in overwhelming proportion by women workers in churches. Montanac will refuse women, unless of course that some dates are given over wholly to them. However, men who attend may bring their wives, so that meetings will really have women present. The plan is absolutely necessary if laymen are to be brought in numbers worth mentioning."

"The other particular is that Montanac will stand for better methods in Christian work. Within the last two or three years the churches everywhere have improved their methods, just as have industrial and commercial plants. In the case of churches there is the added incentive that Jesus Christ taught methods for material work in His Church. At this late day these methods are being studied and applied, and Montanac will, above all else, stand for these new and better ways of handling men and things in relation to God and His cause."

"Churches of the United States had their largest year in 1915 and they lead the churches of the world in many ways. Lawyers, bank clerks and other laymen in large numbers are offering to help on Sundays and some week nights. Schools to teach them what to do and how to do it are being established. In the Seabury Institutes last year, New York city alone, over 1,000 laymen were working under instruction. Practical plans, in which every man may have share, are being introduced into churches of all names, Catholic and Protestant."

"Right in this line it may be pointed out that $200,000,000 is invested in parish houses of the churches in this region, New York, northern New Jersey, Philadelphia and Washington. They are the working part of churches, as churches themselves are the spiritual part. To make these millions of larger use to God and men—such is the problem that Christian leaders are meeting, and this is one of the things that it is hoped Montanac may assist. The plan is the same as other summer meetings in this country and England, viz. to have meetings going on June to September. Because of its location, much will be made of week-ends, and also much of recreation."

C. E. ANNIVERSARY ALL NEXT WEEK

During the week beginning February 6, there is to be celebrated throughout the world the anniversary of an organization which probably has done more for the promotion of Christian unity and fellowship of the churches of all faiths than any other organization known.

The Christian Endeavor movement can easily be termed thirty-five years young for it is a movement which deals primarily with the young people and is in its infancy. Some of the phases of the work worthy of being mentioned are Bible reading by individuals and classes, reading work and church work of all kinds. For years the society has emphasized the imperative importance of good citizenship and has educated generations of young people in the principles of temperance, purity, clean politics and clean living and many other things worthy of commendation itself to the thinking public.

Early last fall the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor understanding the importance of making an event of this kind worthy of having an appropriate celebration secured the promise of having as a speaker for February 8, the efficient and able state secretary, Harold A. Waite of Syracuse, who will address a meeting to be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to which every one is earnestly invited to attend. This meeting beginning at 8 o'clock with a special service of song in charge of Secretary George D. Beckwith of the Y. M. C. A. will be one of interest to all interested in young people's work.

The subject of the address by Mr. Waite will be "The Challenge of the Three C's." He is a forceful and entertaining speaker and one who understands young people and their work.

Invitations have been sent to all young people's organizations connected with the various churches, both in Kingston and the surrounding county, and there should be a large attendance to hear Mr. Waite.

ENCAMPMENT WILL CHALLENGE WINNERS

Kingston Encampment, No. 528, I. O. O. F., is an organization consisting of members of the subordinate lodges of the I. O. O. F. of this district. The work stands for the highest type in Odd Fellowship.

They meet semi-monthly to transact their business and discuss ways and means to improve their lodges to which they belong. On Monday evening at their regular meeting business of great importance will be attended to. In order that a full attendance may be had, a banquet has been arranged for. The committee which was appointed at the last meeting to arrange for this affair will spare no efforts to see that everyone's appetite will be well cared for. At the present time a contest is raging among the three Odd Fellow lodges, consisting of Aretas, Kosciusko and C. S. Clay, to decide the championship of pinocle.

The Encampment approves of this movement very highly. They have been playing in their various lodge rooms for years, each lodge claiming they had the best team. Now they have come together to fully decide who is champion.

Kingston Encampment, No. 125, I. O. O. F., will not feel satisfied with this. They claim that they have some very proficient pinocle players in their Encampment. A number of players that belong to the teams also belong to the Encampment, and they feel that the bacon should be brought to the Encampment. So they have decided to challenge the winning team to a world series among Odd Fellows, consisting of seven games, more or less as they may decide upon. Great credit should be given to the one who was so successful in bringing the different pinocle teams together. It means a great deal to sort the true spirit of Odd Fellowship is tested. We trust that the captains of the teams will meet and consider this challenge for the Encampment shall not let them claim the championship until they have decided to play them. Let every member be present on Monday evening at Odd Fellows' Hall, 635 Broadway.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.
1205—A Dainty and Attractive Frock. Girl's Over Blouse Dress With Gimpes Having Sleeves in Either of Two Lengths.

What little girl will not be pleased with a dress like this; so easy to adjust so neat and becoming. It is suitable for lawn, linen, batiste, galatea, percale, gingham, challie, cashmere or serge. In checked or plaid suiting the over dress could be worn with a gimpes of silk, crepe, or lawn. If made of linen or batiste the front could be daintily embroidered, and for this a gimpes of lawn would also do nicely. In plain or striped gingham or galatea, the model would make a serviceable school dress, with a gimpes of contrasting material. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. It requires 1½ yards of 27 inch material for the gimpes, and 3 yards for the dress for a 6 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Lets You Forget Your Gear Shift

A six cylinder motor is superior to a four only in that it is possible in a six to have greater range of speed on direct drive—requiring less gear shifting.

But not all sixes are superior to all fours.

We build both sixes and fours.

We build fours that have greater flexibility than many sixes.

Our only purpose, therefore, in building a six is to satisfy with Overland finality those discriminating buyers who demand well nigh miraculous performance in an automobile.

So the Overland Six is equipped with a motor so flexible that it almost lets you forget that you have a gear shift.

Except for the start from an absolute standstill, you will drive the Overland Six under even the severest traffic and hill conditions with seldom a need to shift a gear.

And not only is the Overland Six motor a marvel of flexibility.

It has great reserve power.

Its range of speed on direct drive or "high" is therefore coupled with reserve power which enables you to accelerate with lightning rapidity from the slowest to the highest speeds.

And our enormous output enables us to offer the Overland Six equipped with our vastly superior six motor at a price hundreds of dollars less than you must pay for equal performance in any other car.

We are the world's largest builders of sixes and fours, producing virtually two cars for every one of any other concern building similar types and sizes of cars.

Obviously, the Overland Six is underpriced—is dominant Six value—comparable only with very much higher priced cars.

The rush of spring buying naturally centers upon such excess value, taxing even our unequalled production capacity.

See us at once and order your Six now.

ONE CHORUS ENOUGH.

Prof. Coke-Jephcott Thinks Competition Will Be Too Great.

The Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman. Sir:—The announcement that a chorus of two hundred voices is to be organized in connection with the Y. M. C. A., and will give concerts annually in the spring, has just come under my notice.

Last year the Kingston Symphony Society founded a similar chorus for the purpose of performing the great oratorios at a spring festival to be given annually. In a city the size of Kingston, two large choruses rehearsing and giving their performances so close together cannot exist and flourish. Therefore it seems to me that all musicians and persons who have the real interest of the highest music at heart, should unite in supporting the festival chorus of the Kingston Symphony Society rather than try to maintain two large choruses, which cannot help but hamper one another.

Very truly yours,

NORMAN COKE-JEPHCOTT, Conductor of the Festival Chorus of the Kingston Symphony Society.

WHY THEY WANT MUNITIONS EMBARGO

Publicity Committee of Local Branch of American Independence Union Gives Reasons and Will Give More.

Editor The Kingston Freeman:

Sir:—The members of the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union have been requested to publicly state their reasons for their persistent efforts to induce our government to place an embargo on munitions of war. A few reasons are herewith submitted. They regard it as their moral duty as American citizens to insist that an embargo be placed by the American government on munitions of war:

1. Because supplying belligerents with weapons is active participation in the war. And participation in war without a just cause, without the country's call for defense against aggression, and without divine sanction and commission is murder. Wars of defense are divinely sanctioned. One of the highest and most sacred duties of the government of a country is to protect and defend the lives of the men, women and children entrusted to its care. But we are not engaged in a war of defense, nor in war at all. And yet, professing to be at peace with all nations, we are taking active part in this war. We are helping to slay, and are thus slaying, those whom we call our friends. Shedding human blood is a tremendously serious business. Before we aid in destroying untold thousands of human lives it should be clear beyond peradventure that we have not only the technical legal right, but also the moral duty to do so. Our exportation of arms and ammunition is forbidden by the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

2. Because international law permits the embargo. We have had it dinned into our ears that international law permits this trade in the tools of death. But our pro-ally friends have apparently forgotten to look at the other side of the shield. International law also permits the embargo. And the moral law, God's law written in the hearts of men, demands it. The law of nations has hitherto permitted and thus in a measure sanctioned the traffic in the things that kill. But "suprema lex suprema injuria," the greatest legal right is often the greatest moral wrong. The opium traffic was legal, right, but morally wrong. The slave trade was legally right, but morally wrong. Trafficking in the tools of death is legally right, but morally wrong.

3. Because, whilst international law has in a measure sanctioned the trade in munitions of war, it has never sanctioned this traffic for the simple reason that this traffic has never before occurred in all history. It is a novel, an innovation, in law and in history. The world's sense of justice will ever sanction it. It makes a neutral country the chief base of operations for one of the belligerents. Lord Northcliffe said, "The United States is our most valuable ally."

4. Because Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden after the war had begun placed embargoes on arms and ammunition.

5. Because our own United States twice placed an embargo on the exportation of arms and ammunition to Mexico, and that during the progress of the war.

6. Because the statement that to lay an embargo after sufficient notice would constitute an unequal act against the Allies, whilst what we are now doing, and for over a year and a half have been doing, against the Central Powers is not an unequal act, is a false statement, by whomsoever it is made.

7. Because the only complaint the Allies could make if we placed an embargo would be: "You are not helping us to defeat our enemies—something we have not the right, much less the duty to do; whilst the women and children and aged fathers and mothers of the Central Powers are even now making two complaints, or rather one complaint and one fearful charge: First, you are not helping us to defeat our enemies; secondly, you are helping to slay, and are thus slaying, our husbands, our fathers, our brothers, our sons and other providers, whom you call your good friends."

Another letter will follow.

Yours truly,
The Publicity Committee of the Kingston Branch of the American Independence Union.

"DIE WACHT AM RHEIN" THE UNDOING OF GERMAN TEACHER.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—"Die Wacht am Rhein" may be a good song to sing in Germany, but it is manifestly no song to teach to children in far off British Samoa. B. H. Sewade, who with his wife and children is now on his way to New York and from there to Germany has found out this little fact. Sewade was a school teacher for ten years in what was German Samoa, but it is now under British control. When the war started the British authorities closed the school in which Sewade, and his family, were teaching, fearing the influence of a German teacher on his pupils. However, several of the children, not wishing to break off their education, went to Sewade's home for instruction. Among other things he taught them the German national song. This was too much for the British authorities, who ordered Sewade deported.

COLORS OF METEORS.

Three Stages Through Which They Pass to Reach the Earth.

An article by Alfred Wegener in the Scientific American offers an explanation of the marked difference of color observed in meteors. Up to an altitude of about forty-five miles the principal constituent of the earth's atmosphere is nitrogen. A second stratum of the atmosphere, extending up to about 125 miles, consists mainly of hydrogen. Still higher, Wegener himself has sought to prove the existence of a stratum consisting of an excessively light gas which he calls "geocoronium."

When entering the atmosphere from outer space meteors do not become luminous in the very tenuous "geocoronium sphere," but only when they enter the "hydrogen sphere," and most of them are dissipated before reaching the nitrogen atmosphere. The largest fireballs, however, penetrate deeper and may reach the earth or explode not far above it. Dr. Wegener finds that the meteors that penetrate deep enough pass through three color stages—viz. yellow-white, green and deep red. The great majority exhibit only the first stage, in which the color (white, yellow, sometimes reddish) is that of the incandescent meteor itself. The green stage Wegener believes to be due to the incandescence of the hydrogen through which the meteor is passing, while the deep red stage is due to the incandescence of nitrogen in the lower atmosphere.

WHITE HOUSE LADIES.

They Wield Considerable Power, as a Rule, "Under the Rose."

Only those who have given the subject close consideration and have been familiar with it personally can have even a remote idea of the power of the women connected with the presidential administration, meaning the wives of the president, the vice president and the cabinet officers. This power of the women first began to be marked in President Andrew Jackson's time, and it has continued almost unbroken up to the present hour. It is an unseen power. It is not proclaimed from the housetops.

It takes some time for the wives of the cabinet officers to reach a fair footing with the wives of the president and vice president, and among themselves. They come from different sections of the country and must accustom themselves to a vastly different environment, the official life of Washington. In a thousand little ways and in as many big ways they can make or mar, help or hurt, hasten or retard the policy of a presidential administration. They raised old John in Jackson's time by attempting to boycott the wife of a cabinet officer, Mrs. Eaton, but Old Hickory, though not a ladies' man himself, stood valiantly and gallantly beside Mr. and Mrs. Eaton and declared that the wives of his other cabinet officers shouldn't rule his administration. "No, not by the eternal!" Jackson's favorite phrase in negating a proposition.—Exchange.

KEEPING CUT FLOWERS.

Methods by Which the Fading Process May Be Delayed.

Roses, carnations and orchids have been found to keep three times as long if a small quantity of sugar be added to the water, writes Mabel H. Wharton of Oakland, Cal., to Popular Mechanics. A small lump of starch has also been found beneficial. Other flowers begin to bleed as soon as they are cut, and the precious sap running out of the stem causes the cells to collapse immediately. To prevent this the end of the stem must be quickly closed, and this is best done by searing in a flame or by placing directly in hot water.

The florists of California go so far as to boil the stems of the brilliant poinsettias or Christmas flowers, for which they are so famous. The stem is first stuck through a large sheet of paper to prevent the stem from rising directly into the flower and injuring it. Carnations and chrysanthemums will keep almost twice as long if placed in fresh water daily, and a small piece is clipped from the ends of the stems each time. While cutting this place off keep the stem under water so that no air bubbles are allowed to enter the stalk and thus retard the upward flow of water.

If large headed flowers, such as chrysanthemums or peonies, are to be sent some distance insure their arriving in good condition by wrapping each blossom separately in waxed paper.

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.

It Was Successfully Done Ages Ago at the Siege of Syracuse.

Blockading and blockade running is not a young war measure by any means. One of the earliest authentic instances of the practice dates back two centuries before the Christian era. Marcus Claudius Marcellus, commanding a powerful Roman army and an efficient fleet, laid siege to Syracuse, a rich city on the isle of Sicily. Carthage, Rome's great rival on the north shore of Africa, one of the great sea powers of that time, was not at all pleased with the idea of Rome capturing Syracuse, a free city and probably a source of great revenue through trade with Carthage.

Syracuse was a well fortified city, and there seemed to be no immediate prospect of Rome taking it by storm. So Marcellus decided to starve its inhabitants into submission. He put a cordon of ships across the entrance to the harbor and arrayed his army on the land side so that no succor could come from without. But he had underestimated the boldness of the Carthaginians. There was no question of contraband in those days—conditional or other.

In their swift oar driven galleys the sailors of the African city easily eluded the ships set to watch the port and carried provisions and war material into the beleaguered city. So successful were the Carthaginians in getting supplies into the city—running the blockade—that had it not fallen through treachery it would have been enabled to hold out indefinitely. While blockades probably had been established before on a small scale, the blockade of Syracuse is one of the earliest instances where the efficiency of a blockade by sea was of vital importance in determining the success of war on an important seaport.—Munsey's Magazine.

LEGEND OF THE DONKEY.

Showing Why the Arabs Beat the Brute With Impunity.

In his article on his journey to Babylon, in Harper's, William Warfield tells a legend prevailing among the natives by which they justify beating of donkeys, but not horses.

"We stopped to change our mules. In the roadway before the khan sat a group of Arabs. A servant supplied them with little cups of tea from a rude samovar. We saluted them, and taking our places in the circle, we were served in turn. Some one in the dark doorway was thumping away on a drum. A boy came out of the khan beating a poor lame donkey with fly infested sores. I turned to one of my neighbors:

"Is it not cruel for that boy to beat a lame donkey in that way?"

"Effendi, it is the will of God."

"But you do not allow horses or camels to be beaten thus."

"Effendi, the donkey is not like the horse, nor yet is he like the camel. The reason is this: Upon a certain day the donkeys went before Allah and complained that they were grievously beaten by men, so that life was a greater burden than they could bear. Then said Allah: 'I cannot make men cease from beating you. It is no sin, neither does it cause them any great loss. But I will help you. I will give you so thick a hide that, however much you are beaten, you shall not suffer.'"

"So," said my informant, "it is of no consequence if men beat a donkey. So thick a skin did Allah give him that after he dies men use it in the making of drums, and the donkey continues to be beaten after death."

Effects of Frost.

An egg expands when it is frozen and breaks its shell. Apples contract so much that a full barrel will shrink until the top layer is a foot below the chine. When the frost is drawn out the apples assume their normal size and fill up the barrel again. Some varieties are not appreciably injured by being frozen if the frost is drawn out gradually. Apples will carry safely in a refrigerator car while the mercury is registering fully 20 degrees below zero. Potatoes, being so largely composed of water, are easily frozen. Once touched by frost they are ruined.—Northwest Trade.

Make the Manufacturer Help

Mr. Retailer, tell your manufacturers very plainly what kind of advertising helps you.

Tell them that advertising in this newspaper is read by the people of this city and sends customers to your store.

Tell them that it sells the goods.

Tell them that you are glad to co-operate with it by showing the goods when the advertising is running.

Tell them you are not interested in their national reputation, but they are mightily interested in the reputation their goods have right here in your city.

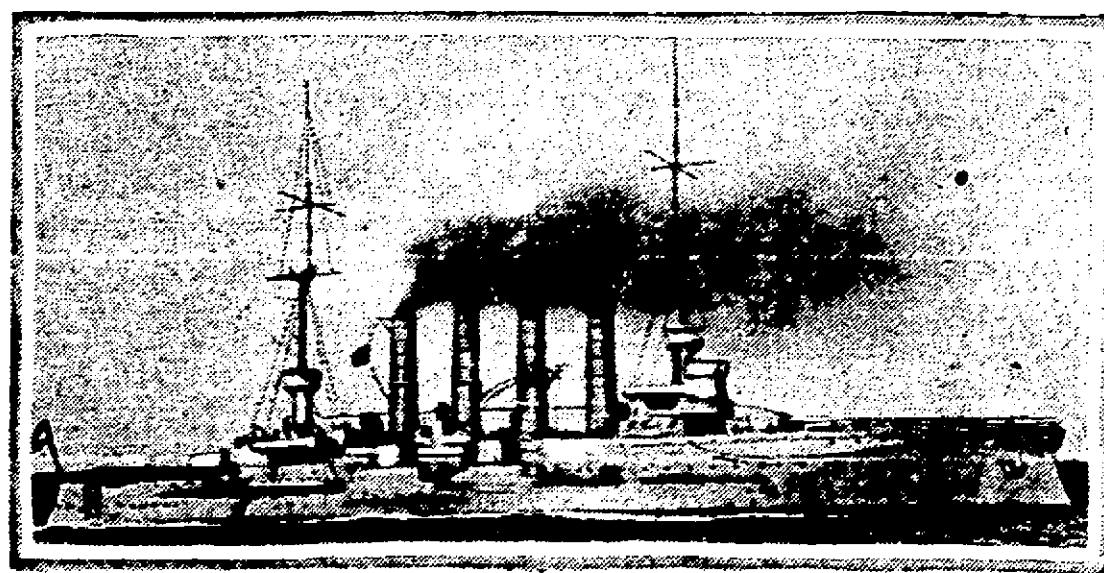

That local reputation means sales for you and for the manufacturer.

GERMAN REPLY BEING EXAMINED

"Utmost Concession" in Hands of President, Who is Carefully Considering Whether it Meets the Demands of The U. S.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Germany's "utmost concession" to amicably settle the Lusitania controversy to day was in the hands of President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing. They must determine whether it meets the situation so that the honor of the United States is preserved. The German ambassador insists that it does; that it goes further and while not using the term "disavowal," whose sense cannot be translated as understood here into the German language, concedes to the United States all that international law can require. Secretary Lansing refuses to discuss the matter. He said today that he will require "time" to examine just what the new German suggestion does and its applicability to the entire suggested Lusitania agreement.

President Wilson, the White House said today, will not take any "snap judgment" on the German reply. He will confer with Secretary Lansing and his other advisers and decide what the next step will be. It is very likely that the whole subject will be threshed out at the regular cabinet meeting next Tuesday. The president, it is explained, realizes that public sentiment both in this country and Germany must be taken into consideration in reaching his decision. And the effect that a wrong decision would tie the hands of the United States in its operation of submarines should this country become involved in war has also been called to his attention.

"The situation is grave; but no more grave than it has been ever since the negotiations struck their initial snag," is the way that one of President Wilson's advisers summed it up today. And that seemed to be reflected everywhere in official circles. Officials feel confident that if the latest German suggestion proved entirely frank and indicated a sincere desire on the part of Germany to meet the demands of the United States while at the same time preserving her own legal rights and her standing at home, the president would take this into consideration in reaching his decision.

The chief stumbling block, officials say, is that from the first the United States has insisted that submarine warfare as originally conducted by Germany was illegal. This was set forth in the original Lusitania note which specifically insisted on a disavowal. In the note of June 9, 1915, the state department insisted that it was contending "for nothing less high and sacred than the rights of humanity."

What the president must determine, officials pointed out, was whether the new suggestion made by Germany meets this situation. Both he and Secretary Lansing will consider the limitations of the two languages and the necessity for using words and phrases that mean the same in both.

It was intimated in administration circles today that President Wilson would not announce any course of action in the Lusitania case until after Col. House gets back to the United States and reports. The colonel sent word to Washington, showing his conception of the German attitude. It is said he is convinced of the sincere desire of the German government to remain friendly with the United States and there is a possibility that he may have received certain assurances to deliver to the president in person.

Germany Would Arbitrate.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Feb. 5.—Private Berlin advices received in influential quarters in Holland today report that Germany has offered in its reply to the United States to submit to a neutral court the question of the legality of the sinking of the Lusitania, this tribunal to consist of representatives of leading neutral nations and to meet at once to draft rules for submarine warfare.

H., for eight years.

Testifying on the stand she said that Mr. Storey had treated her like a grandfather and said that "he was kindly, affectionate and interesting." She denied that he had ever kissed her.

She said that she was 13 or 14 years old when she first met Mr. Storey. He bought her a horse, which is in Plymouth and gave her two rides.

She said Mr. Storey paid her tuition and gave her money for incidental expenses at college. She introduced him to her friends in college. She did not remember saying that she refused to invite him to a party because he did not dress properly.

She said she saw him intoxicated only once; that was on a trip to Mt. Washington six years ago. He was partly under the influence of liquor four or five times.

On April 15, 1914, she received a telephone message that he was in Boston. He invited her to lunch and told her that he had made his will and had remembered her and her brother and that he gave $10,000 to the Floating Hospital. He executed his will that day. He did not take a drink at the luncheon, she said.

Clever Fish Hawks.

Turks around the Bosphorus amuse themselves by playing pitch and catch with the hungry fish hawks. They throw high in the air a lump of raw meat, and the hawks pounce upon the meat before it strikes the ground and make away with it to the little ones.

Where He Made His Money.

Years ago a gentleman settled in the south of England and became very popular in the neighborhood. The county families could never discover how he had made his money, but were satisfied by his solemn assurance that it was not in trade. Nothing could exceed the ordinary gravity of his demeanor, which indeed caused him to be placed on the commission of peace, but now and then, without any apparent provocation, he would burst into such a laugh as no one ever heard before except in one place. Where they could have heard it puzzled the county families for five and twenty years, but at last he was betrayed unconsciously by his own grandchild, who, after a visit to a traveling circus, innocently exclaimed, "Why, grandpa laughs just like the clown!"—James Payn.

Waterproofing Matches.

A waterproof matchbox is good for emergencies, but not for a smoker's daily supply. I waterproof the matches themselves by dipping them half length in shellac varnish thinned with alcohol and laying them out separately on a newspaper to dry. Shellac is better than paraffin or collodion because it does not wear off, and it is itself inflammable, like sealing wax. Matches so treated can be left in water a long time without spoiling.—Outing.

ILLUSTRATION BY BARNARD COLLEGE GIRLS BECOMING EXPERTS IN JIU JITSU ART.

New York, Feb. 5.—Barnard College girls, those alluring damsels whose gymnasium and campus enclaves have long held mysteries interesting as much for the mystery as for the charm of the girls, are learning to take care of themselves.

The girls are learning how to protect themselves with their own pretty hands, no matter what sort of surroundings they may happen to encounter. Every day those who are lucky enough to see them at work may find perfectly looking belles acquiring knowledge concerning the most just way to twist a "guy's" arm until he screams with pain, or to deftly trip an unwelcome intruder so that he measures his length in the justly celebrated New York gutters.

The girls have gone in for jiu jitsu. This ancient sport and defense from the land of flowers and the empire of the Most Eminent Favorite Child of the Harvest Moon is being taught by Miss Grace Gerard, the directress of physical culture.

PERILOUS TRIP OF FRENCH LINER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 5.—Proceeding at night without lights to escape any German submarine that might be lurking off the French coast, narrowly escaping hitting a mine and encountering stormy weather and terrific seas, the French liner Chicago arrived here today two days overdue.

After leaving Bordeaux the liner received wireless messages from shore stating that German submarines were off the coast. The captain ordered the lights out at night until the steamer was in mid-Atlantic. When two days out the Chicago came near hitting a mine. She was heading straight for it when the lookout shouted the warning and the liner veered off, missing the mine by a few feet.

The liner was buffeted all the way across the ocean by terrific seas and strong westerly winds.

How he strangled 25 Germans to death was related by Henri Besodes, of Montreal, who is fighting in the French army. He came over here to bring his two children back to France. His wife died two months ago. He said his favorite way of killing the Germans was by grabbing them by the throat and choking them to death.

Dancing followed the game with music furnished by Mance's first orchestra.

Popular Japanese Pickle.

An article of food universally popular in Japan is the Japanese pickle, made principally of garden vegetables, especially the large Japanese radish. Cucumbers, eggplant, small turnips and greens of various sorts go to make up this apparently vital accessory of Japanese meals. It is made by pickling the various articles in salt with a paste of powdered rice, bran and some vinegar, and to most foreigners the taste and smell are all but objectionable.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

William Miller, of Miller's Taxi and Cab Service, is now driving his Ford taxi—that is he was driv-ing it until the snow storm came on Wednesday morning. The new car is a beauty, having every modern ap-pointment and running as smoothly and noiselessly as the most critical could wish. Mr. Miller received the new car on January 26. In Septem-ber he purchased a Ford taxi, 1916 model, so the new machine makes the second he has bought within four months. Mr. Miller says: "Henry failed to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, but he never fails to get out a good auto, at any time of the year."

Thirty-six per cent increase in the number of motor cars regis-tered, 21 per cent gain in the num-ber of licenses issued to chauffeurs and 24 per cent in addition to the amount of money paid to the state by motorists—nearly two thousand times the sum first collected by the state in 1901—this, in brief, tells the story of the advance in motor-ing in New York state during the license year just closed. With the amount paid in from fines imposed upon motorists for violation of the law, the combined total moneys to be set apart this year exclusively for the maintenance and repair of the improved highways reaches nearly the two million dollar mark. Last year exactly 316,185 persons received their motor driving creden-tials from Secretary Hugo's office. Of this number 231,831 were owners, representing 208,421 pleasure and 23,411 commercial cars, while 2,201 dealers received their certifi-cates, all contributing $1,133,175. The corresponding figures for 1914 were 235,602 credentials, covering 151,030 pleasure cars, 17,193 commercial, 1,743 dealers, 66,636 chauffeurs, the fees aggre-gating $1,529,852. The number of cars licensed for the first time in this state last year totaled 80,704, 9,200 representing commercials. There were 112,237 machines re-corded under 26 horse power, 71,065 cars less than 35 H. P., 23,310 less than 35 H. P., and 1,225 of 50 H. P. or more.

Horse Scared by a Dog.

A horse attached to a cutter be-came frightened by a dog while standing in front of Carl's store on the corner of North Front and Fair streets this morning at 11 o'clock and, dashing down Fair street, turned in John and fell on the side-walk by Styles' jewelry store. The horse was badly scraped and bled freely but luckily there were no oc-cupants of the sleigh. The owner of the horse and cutter is a man named Van Wageningen of High Falls and he was out of the sleigh at the time that the horse became fright-ened. In the run down Fair street the horse barely missed colliding with a street car and several pedes-trians who were crossing the corner of John and Fair streets.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Another successful dance was given last night in the high school gym-nasium under the auspices of the Girls' Athletic Association. A tidy sum was realized and the large num-ber of dancers enjoyed a "mighty good time."

C. Gordon Reel and Martin F. Netter are in New York as repre-sentatives of the Rondout Yacht Club at the annual meeting and banquet of the Hudson River Yacht Racing Association to be held this evening at the Hermitage Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Richards gave a surprise party at their home, No. 27 South Prospect street, Friday evening in honor of Miss Laura Post's 18th birthday. She was pre-sented with many handsome gifts. Music and solos were rendered dur-ing the evening by Prof. Augustus Schmidt of Bridgeport, Conn. Those present were Prof. A. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller of Schenec-tady, Miss Elizabeth Carland, James Smith of Albany, Miss Alice Post of this city, Walter Heimberger of Schenectady, Miss Laura B. Post, John Schantz, Mrs. Carle, Mrs. Simp-son and Mr. and Mrs. G. Richards. Refreshments were served and the guests departed at the wee hours of the morning, all wishing Miss Post many more happy birthdays.

The first of a series of dances to be given under the auspices of the Blue Ribbon Club will be held at Griffiths's Hall on Hasbrouck avenue this evening. About a year ago this popular club gave a series of dances which proved to be social and finan-cial successes and the affair this year gives promise of being as successful as those formerly held. The hall has been thoroughly renovated and re-decorated so that at present it stands second to none in Kingston as far as appearances are concerned. The members of the club have worked hard and faithfully to make their present affair a complete suc-cess, and as there has been a large sale of tickets a good time is assured to all who are fortunate enough to be in attendance. McLean's well known and popular orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. Dancing will be held from 8 until 12 o'clock.

Kew's Nameless Tree.

Kew gardens has its mystery in the form of a tree which no one yet has been able to name. It is not far from the entrance from Kew Green, and a tablet confesses the inability of the learned men at Kew correctly to place it in the botanical system. It is some-thing like a plane tree, but it is not a plane tree. It is, or was as late as last summer, when the present writer saw it, simply "a tree." Can any reader solve the mystery and restore it to its lost family?—London Chronicle.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 5, 1916.

Coal consumers have reason to worry over the full page advertisements now running in the newspapers in which the anthracite operators go to particular pains to give their views with respect to the demands of the miners. The latter in a series of ten requests seek two year contracts, a 50 per cent wage increase, the eight hour day with overtime, full union recognition and many other changes in the present system originally laid down by the Anthracite Coal Commission named by President Roosevelt in 1902. To all of these, the operators make answer in effect that the demands are

WISE FIGHTERS AVOID SECOND DRUBBING

Frank Moran and Jim Coffey

(By FRANK G. MENKE.)

Rarely in prize ring history has a fighter secured revenge for a knock-out at the hands of another battler. No matter how superior he may be in all-around ring skill, the other man always seems to have something "on" him.

Some months ago Frank Moran scored a technical knockout over Jim Coffey. The latter seemed to be the superior fighter, yet Moran battered Coffey into such shape in the early part of the fight that the referee stopped the milling.

Coffey thought that victory of Moran's was a fluke; so did thousands of other persons. Coffey yearned for another chance at Moran, he got it, and in the second meeting Moran duplicated his first trick—he scored a knockout over the Dublin Irishman.

Terry McGovern and Young Corbett furnish another example. On Thanksgiving day of 1901 the wonderful Terry, then at the very crest of his remarkable career, met the almost unknown Young Corbett. The sporting world was electrified when the news was flashed out that Corbett had knocked out McGovern in the second round.

"Accident, accident," was the general verdict. McGovern thought so, too. So he took on Corbett again in 1905, and Corbett knocked out McGovern in the eleventh round.

Les Darcy, the Australian middleweight knocked out the great Eddie McGoorty in the summer of 1915. Everybody thought it an accident. Darcy gave McGoorty a chance to vindicate himself a few months later, with the result that Darcy knocked out McGoorty again.

George Chip, then an unknown, met Frank Klaus, and knocked him out. Klaus begged for another chance. Chip accommodated him, and again scored a knockout victory over Klaus.

It seems to be an unwritten law of the prize ring that when a man has been knocked out once by another, that other can best him in their subsequent meeting. The history of pugilism is filled with such instances, and the wise fighters of today are those who do not ask for a second chance against the man who sent them to dreamland in the first meeting.

However, Stanley Ketchel was the one striking exception to the rule. In 1908 Billy Papke knocked him out in the twelfth round of their fight. In 1909 Papke and Ketchel met again, and Ketchel upset tradition by knocking out Papke in the eleventh round, thus regaining the middleweight championship he held until the time of his death.

IS STRONG FOR MEDAL PLAY

Jerome Travers Expresses Views on National Amateur Championship

—Luck Is Eliminated.

Jerome D. Travers, who has been advocating a medal play test for the national amateur championship, expressed his views in public at the dinner given by the Cranford Golf club in the rooms of the Whitehall club at New York recently.

"I have been advocating the adoption of a seventy-two-hole medal play round as the amateur championship test for over two years," said Jerry, "and I have been doing so because I am convinced that it is the only fair test. To begin with, it eliminates two elements of luck, the luck of the draw and the stymie, which I think should be abolished, except possibly when a man stymies himself.

"Then, too, a man is playing not against one opponent, but against every man in the field, and as you hold the championship to pick the best man, why not make him play against everyone of his opponents?"

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Feb. 5.—The daily newspapers have been indicted by the "Trotter and Pacer" magazine, in a recent editorial, on the charge of having forgotten the harness game; of ignoring it almost entirely in their news columns.

"It is entirely safe to say," asserts the editorial, in part, "that there is not a famous stallion in this country of a fast performer which would be known outside of his own narrow local sphere, were it not for the publicity given to him by the turf papers."

In a way, the "Trotter and Pacer" is right. The newspapers do not give very much publicity to the harness game, but the fault does not lie with the newspaper. It lies with the officials of the Grand Circuit, and the other harness horse organizations, who fail to realize that publicity means life for a game of sport; who fail to avail themselves on the opportunity to secure this publicity.

Thirty years or so ago the harness game was among the leaders, in the sporting field. It got as much publicity as baseball, football, pugilism and other sports. But since that era, those other sports have come before with a wonderful rush and practically have crowded the light harness racing news off the sporting pages.

Officials at Fault.

The explanation for that is simple. The men connected with baseball, football, pugilism, golf, tennis and other sports came to realize the value of publicity—and they organized plans to get it. They didn't wait for the papers to come to them. They went to the newspapers and kept them informed at all times of their doings. But the light harness racing officials are asleep. They seem to ignore the existence of newspapers.

Every big college today maintains a department akin to a publicity bureau. It is the duty of that department to supply the newspapers with news and pictures concerning all the athletes in that college. Those bureaus labor unceasingly to gain newspaper publicity.

The baseball clubs have secretaries whose business it is to inform the newspapers of every move that club makes. It sends out every item of news it can, realizing that publicity is the food that nourishes the game. Each year the leagues send out to every newspaper in the country the statistics covering each player during the past season and they also send their schedules to each newspaper in the country. No meeting ever takes place without all the papers being informed as to the date and place.

Practically every pugilist in the country has a press agent. It is his job to get publicity for his man. He bombards the newspapers with pictures and stories and he is contented if he can see in print one out of every ten stories that he sends. Every club in the country that stages pugilistic bouts also is an entry in the race for newspaper publicity.

Others Seek Publicity.

The same thing is true concerning the golf and tennis officials and also the jockey clubs which govern the running department of the turf game. They are alive. They, too, are among those who realize the value of newspaper publicity. They don't wait for the newspapers to seek them out; they seek out the newspapers.

But how vastly different is the attitude of the light harness racing officials! Not only are they minus a publicity department, but they consistently ignore the newspapers when they have highly important news to dispense. In some instances, they even balk at attempts of the newspapers to get trotting news. They seem unconscious of the fact that a new era has come; one in which a sport shall live and thrive—or die—according to the amount of newspaper publicity it gets. Here is an instance of the way it conducts itself toward newspapers:

The Grand Circuit, the biggest trotting organization in the world, recently named its 1916 meeting dates, yet we dare say the Circuit didn't go to the trouble of sending those dates to a dozen of the thousands of newspapers in the country. At the same meeting the organization adopted some new and important rules, but the stewards didn't send out the news to the newspapers in general. In a dozen other ways do the officials ignore the newspapers.

The trotting game has been losing in popularity through the past 20 years because the newspapers gradually have ceased giving it big space. A new generation has arisen during that period. If the trotting people had sought—and fought for—newspaper publicity they would have secured it and thus recruited to its winning ranks many of the new generation. But they haven't.

Trotting Game Deserves Support.

The trotting game is one of the cleanest and squarest in the sporting world today. The men connected with it rank among the finest sportsmen in the country. The game itself is one of thrills; one that brings together that wonderful combination of man and thoroughbred animal; a real sport—the sport of kings! It is a game that should flourish; that should increase in popularity year after year. But it doesn't, simply because the men behind it seem unaware of the fact that newspaper publicity is life; because they lack an organized plan to get it.

The trotting officials probably feel that because theirs is a game that is straight and clean and thrilling it ought to get newspaper support without seeking it. They probably are unaware of the fact that the newspapers each day get three times as much sporting news from the publicity bureau of baseball, football, golf, tennis, boxing, etc., as they can print. Therefore, they are not in a mood to spend a lot of time pursuing trotting officials, who do not seem to want publicity anyway.

What the trotting game needs—and needs immediately—is a live publicity bureau; one that will keep the newspapers—all of them—informed at all times of the doings of the men and the horses connected with the light harness racing; one that will supply pictures and human interest stories and statistics, so that the public will know what the trotters and the pacers and their drivers and owners are doing and how well they are doing.

KINGSTON FIVE TO PLAY CRESCENTS

The many followers of amateur basketball in this city and vicinity will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the fastest games ever staged in this section when the crack Crescent Club and the fast Kingston Five clash at the local Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, February 9. That an intense amount of enthusiasm has been aroused is shown by the unusually large advance sale of tickets for the contest and arrangements have been completed for handling the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a game on the Y. M. C. A. court. Every available bit of space has been utilized to accommodate the rooters and the keen rivalry that has always existed between the members of both clubs has been extended to the friends and backers of the contending teams.

Many heated arguments are continually heard on all sides regarding the merit of the different players and in many cases the local rooters are backing up their favorite financially, with plenty of takers either way you choose to lay your funds. On paper the Crescents seem to have a shade the better of their opponents, due to their continued experience against crack teams and their being familiar with the style and play of each member of their team. Their past work has been perfected to a point worthy of professionals, while each and every one of the team has a good eye for the basket and are always dangerous when within shooting distance of the cage. They are fully cognizant of being returned the winners and have little fear of the ultimate result of the game.

To offset the apparent advantage of the Crescents is that the Kingston Five are familiar with the Y. M. C. A. court, that being their home court and they are also used to the screen back boards. Coupled with the above knowledge the Kingston Five have demonstrated their ability as basketball tossers on numerous occasions. They have cleaned up every team of calibre in this section and only during the past week drubbed the crack High School team, breaking their continued record of victories. Every member of the Kingston Five is well known in athletic circles and are leaders in their class. Brown is a crack-jack guard, a great basketball shot and the teenager of the many art of self defense in the local Y. M. C. A. Craig has a city wide reputation as a roving center and also leads a class during the physical exercises held at the Y. M. C. A. Wenzel is a well known baseball pitcher and athlete, while Davis has been connected with every form of athletics held in the local gym. Cism and Elmendorf have repeatedly shown their worth and taken all in all the Kingston Five is as good a representation of local athletes as could be gathered together on one club.

The following well known players will compose the lineup of the Crescents: Fox and Dittus, forwards; Spall, center; Murphy, Butler and Robinson, guards. Little need be said of this gathering of stars as they have been continually before the public for the past few years. Each and every member of both clubs are in the pink of condition and this first game of the series for the city championship should be well worth going a long way to witness. Owing to the fact that there will be no dancing after the game, only a small fee admission will be charged.

C. E. ANNIVERSARY ALL NEXT WEEK

During the week beginning February 6, there is to be celebrated throughout the world the anniversary of an organization which probably has done more for the promoting of Christian unity and fellowship of the churches of all faiths than any other organization known.

The Christian Endeavor movement can easily be termed thirty-five years young for it is a movement which deals primarily with the young people and is in its infancy. Some of the phases of the work worthy of being mentioned are Bible reading by individuals and classes, mission work and church work of all kinds. For years the society has emphasized the imperative importance of good citizenship and has educated generations of young people in the principles of temperance, purity, clean politics and clean living and many other things worthy of commendation itself to the thinking public.

Early last fall the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor understanding the importance of making an event of this kind worthy of having an appropriate celebration secured the promise of having as a speaker for February 8, the efficient and able state secretary, Harold A. White of Syracuse, who will address a meeting to be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium to which every one is earnestly invited to attend. This meeting beginning at 8 o'clock with a special service of song in charge of Secretary George D. Beckwith of the Y. M. C. A. will be one of interest to all interested in young people's work.

ENCAMPMENT WILL CHALLENGE WINNERS

Kingston Encampment, No. 528, I. O. O. F., is an organization consisting of members of the subordinate lodges of the I. O. O. F. of this district. The work stands for the highest type in Odd Fellowship.

They meet semi-monthly to transact their business and discuss ways and means to improve their lodges to which they belong. On Monday evening at their regular meeting business of great importance will be attended to. In order that a full attendance may be had, a banquet has been arranged for. The committee, which was appointed at the last meeting to arrange for this affair will spare no efforts to see that everyone's appetite will be well cared for. At the present time a contest is raging among the three Odd Fellow lodges, consisting of Aretas, Kosciusko and C. S. Clay, to decide the championship of pinocle.

The Encampment approves of this movement very highly. They have been playing in their various lodge rooms for years, each lodge claiming they had the best team. Now they have come together to fully decide who is champion.

Kingston Encampment, No. 528, I. O. O. F., will not feel satisfied with this. They claim that they have some very proficient pinocle players in their Encampment. A number of players that belong to the teams also belong to the Encampment, and they feel that the "bacon" should be brought to the Encampment. So they have decided to challenge the winning team to a world series among Odd Fellows, consisting of seven games, more or less as they may decide upon. Great credit should be given to the one who was so successful in bringing the different pinocle teams together. It means a great deal to Odd Fellowship. In a game of this sort the true spirit of Odd Fellowship is tested. We trust that the captains of the teams will meet and consider this challenge for the Encampment shall not let them claim the championship until they have decided to play them. Let every member be present on Monday evening at Odd Fellows' Hall, 635 Broadway.

Overland

Lets You Forget Your Gear Shift

A six cylinder motor is superior to a four only in that it is possible in a six to have greater range of speed on direct drive—requiring less gear shifting.

But not all sixes are superior to all fours.

We build both sixes and fours.

We build fours that have greater flexibility than many sixes.

Our only purpose, therefore, in building a six is to satisfy with Overland finally those discriminating buyers who demand well nigh miraculous performance in an automobile.

So the Overland Six is equipped with a motor so flexible that it almost lets you forget that you have a gear shift.

Except for the start from an absolute standstill, you will drive the Overland Six under even the severest traffic and hill conditions with seldom a need to shift a gear.

And not only is the Overland Six motor a marvel of flexibility.

It has great reserve power.

Its range of speed on direct drive or "high" is therefore coupled with reserve power which enables you to accelerate with lightning rapidity from the slowest to the highest speeds.

And our enormous output enables us to offer the Overland Six equipped with our vastly superior six motor at a price hundreds of dollars less than you must pay for equal performance in any other car.

We are the world's largest builders of sixes and fours, producing virtually two cars for every one of any other concern building similar types and sizes of cars.

Obviously, the Overland Six is underpriced—dominant Six value—comparable only with very much higher priced cars.

The rush of spring buying naturally centers upon such excess value, taxing even our unequalled production capacity.

See us at once and order your Six now.

ONE CHORUS ENOUGH. Prof. Coke-Jephcott Thinks Competition Will Be Too Great.

The Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman.

Dear Sir:—The announcement that a chorus of two hundred voices is to be organized in connection with the Y. M. C. A. and will give concerts annually in the spring, has just come under my notice.

Last year the Kingston Symphony Society founded a similar chorus for the purpose of performing the great oratorios at a spring festival to be given annually. In a city the size of Kingston, two large choruses rehearsing and giving their performances so close together cannot exist and flourish. Therefore it seems to me that all musicians and persons who have the real interest of the highest music at heart, should unite in supporting the festival chorus of the Kingston Symphony Society rather than try to maintain two large choruses, which cannot help but hamper one another.

Very truly yours,

NORMAN COKE-JEPHCOTT, Conductor of the Festival Chorus of the Kingston Symphony Society.

Care of Thanks.

The son and daughters of the late Mrs. Christina Fox desire to express their gratitude to all those who so kindly remembered them in their recent bereavement, especially the Ladies' Aid Society of the Spring Street Lutheran Church.

"Utmost Concession" in Hands of President. Who is Carefully Considering Whether it Meets the Demands of The U. S.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Germany's "utmost concession" to amicably settle the Lusitania controversy to day was in the hands of President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing. They must determine whether it meets the situation so that the honor of the United States is preserved. The German ambassador insists that it does; that it goes further and while not using the term "disavowal," whose sense cannot be translated as understood here into the German language, concedes to the United States all that international law can require. Secretary Lansing refuses to discuss the matter. He said today that he will require "time" to examine just what the new German suggestion does and its applicability to the entire suggested Lusitania agreement.

President Wilson, the White House said today, will not take any "snap judgment" on the German reply. He will confer with Secretary Lansing and his other advisers and decide what the next step will be. It is very likely that the whole subject will be threshed out at the regular cabinet meeting next Tuesday. The president, it is explained, realizes that public sentiment both in this country and Germany must be taken into consideration in reaching his decision. And the effect that a wrong decision would have on the hands of the United States in its operation of submarines should this country become involved in war has also been called to his attention.

"The situation is grave; but no more grave than it has been ever since the negotiations struck their initial snag," is the way that one of President Wilson's advisers summed it up today. And that seemed to be reflected everywhere in official circles. Officials feel confident that if the latest German suggestion proved entirely frank and indicated a sincere desire on the part of Germany to meet the demands of the United States while at the same time preserving her own legal rights and her standing at home, the president would take this into consideration.

The chief stumbling block, officials say, is that from the first the United States has insisted that submarine warfare as originally conducted by Germany was illegal. This was set forth in the original Lusitania note which specifically insisted on a disavowal. In the note of June 9, 1915, the state department insisted that it was contending "for nothing less high and sacred than the rights of humanity."

What the president must determine, officials pointed out, was whether the new suggestion made by Germany meets this situation. Both he and Secretary Lansing will consider the limitations of the two languages and the necessity for using words and phrases that mean the same in both.

It was intimated in administration circles today that President Wilson would not announce any course of action in the Lusitania case until after Col. House gets back to the United States and reports. The colonel has sent word to Washington showing his conviction of the German attitude. It is said he is convinced of the sincere desire of the German government to remain friendly with the United States and there is a possibility that he may have received certain assurances to deliver to the president in person.

H., for eight years.

Testifying on the stand she said that Mr. Storey had treated her like a granddaughter and said that "he was kindly, affectionate and interesting." She denied that he had ever kissed her.

She said that she was 13 or 14 years old when she first met Mr. Storey. He bought her a horse, which is in Plymouth and gave her two rings.

She said Mr. Storey paid her tuition and gave her money for incidental expenses at college. She introduced him to her friends in college. She did not remember saying that she refused to invite him to a party because he did not dress properly.

She said she saw him intoxicated only once; that was on a trip to Mt. Washington six years ago. He was partly under the influence of liquor four or five times.

On April 15, 1914, she received a telephone message that he was in Boston. He invited her to lunch and told her that he had made his will and had remembered her and her brother and that he gave $10,000 to the Floating Hospital. He executed his will that day. He did not take a drink at the luncheon, she said.

PERILOUS TRIP OF FRENCH LINER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 5.—Proceeding at night without lights to escape any German submarine that might be lurking off the French coast, narrowly escaping hitting a mine and encountering stormy weather and terrible seas, the French liner Chicago arrived here today two days overdue.

After leaving Bordeaux the liner received wireless messages from shore stating that German submarines were off the coast. The captain ordered the lights out at night until the steamer was in mid-Atlantic. When two days out the Chicago came near hitting a mine. She was heading straight for it when the lookout shouted the warning and the liner veered off, missing the mine by a few feet.

The liner was buffeted all the way across the ocean by terrific seas and strong westerly winds.

How he strangled 25 Germans to death was related by Henri Bessodes, of Montreal, who is fighting in the French army. He came over here to bring his two children back to France. His wife died two months ago. He said his favorite way of killing the Germans was by grabbing them by the throat and choking them to death.

WISE FIGHTERS AVOID SECOND DRUBBING

Frank Moran and Jim Coffey

By FRANK G. MENKE.
Rarely in prize ring history has a fighter secured revenge for a knock-out at the hands of another battler. No matter how superior he may be in all-around ring skill, the other man always seems to have something "on" him.

Some months ago Frank Moran scored a technical knockout over Jim Coffey. The latter seemed to be the superior fighter, yet Moran battered Coffey into such shape in the early part of the fight that the referee stopped the milling.

Coffey thought that victory of Moran's was a fluke, so did thousands of other persons. Coffey yearned for another chance at Moran, he got it, and in the second meeting Moran duplicated his first trick—he scored a knockout over the Dublin Irishman.

Terry McGovern and Young Corbett furnish another example. On Thanksgiving day of 1901 the wonderful Terry, then at the very crest of his remarkable career, met the almost unknown Young Corbett. The sporting world was electrified when the news was flashed out that Corbett had knocked out McGovern in the second round.

"Accident, accident," was the general verdict. McGovern thought so, too. So he took on Corbett again in test for over two years," said Jerry, and I have been doing so because I am convinced that it is the only fair test. To begin with, it eliminates two elements of luck, the luck of the draw and the stroke which I think should be abolished except possibly when a man stymies himself.

"Then, too, a man is playing not against one opponent, but against every man in the field and as you hold the championship to pick the best man, why not make him play against everyone of his opponents?"

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, Feb. 5.—The daily newspapers have been indicted by the "Trotter and Pacer" magazine, in a recent editorial, on the charge of having forgotten the harness game; of ignoring it almost entirely in their news columns.

"It is entirely safe to say," asserts the editorial, in part, "that there is not a famous stallion in this country or a fast performer which would be known outside of his own narrow local sphere, were it not for the publicity given to him by the turf papers."

In a way, the "Trotter and Pacer" is right. The newspapers do not give very much publicity to the harness game, but the fault does not lie with the newspaper. It lies with the officials of the Grand Circuit, and the other harness horse organizations, who fail to realize that publicity means life for a game of sport; who fail to avail themselves on the opportunity to secure this publicity.

Thirty years or so ago the harness game was among the leaders, in the sporting field. It got as much publicity as baseball, football, pugilism and other sports. In some sections it got more. But since that era, those other sports have come to the fore and a wonderful rush and practically have crowded the light harness racing news off the sporting pages.

Officials at Fault.

The explanation for that is simple. The men connected with baseball, football, pugilism, golf, tennis and other sports came to realize the value of publicity—and they organized plans to get it. They waited for the papers to come to them. They went to the newspapers and kept them informed at all times of their doings. But the light harness racing officials are asleep. They seem to ignore the existence of newspapers.

Every big college today maintains a department akin to a publicity bureau. It is the duty of that department to supply the newspapers with news and pictures concerning all the athletes in that college. Those bureau labor unceasingly to gain newspaper publicity.

The baseball clubs have secretaries whose business it is to inform the newspapers of every move that club makes. It sends out every item of news it can, realizing that publicity is the food that nourishes the game. Each year the leagues send out to every newspaper in the country the statistics covering each player during the past season and they also send their schedules to each newspaper in the country. No meeting ever takes place without all the papers being informed as to the date and place.

Practically every pugilist in the country has a press agent. It is his job to get publicity for his man. He writes the newspapers with pictures and stories and he is contented if he can see in print one out of every ten stories that he sends. Every club in the country that stages pugilistic bouts also is an entry in the race for newspaper publicity.

Others Seek Publicity.

The same thing is true concerning the golf and tennis officials and also the jockey clubs which govern the running department of the turf game. They are alive. They, too, are among those who realize the value of newspaper publicity. They don't wait for the newspapers to seek them out; they seek out the newspapers.

But how vastly different is the attitude of the light harness racing officials! Not only are they minus a publicity department, but they consistently ignore the newspapers when they have highly important news to disseminate. In some instances, they even balk at attempts of the newspapers to get trotting news. They seem unconscious of the fact that a new era has come; one in which a sport shall live and thrive—or die—according to the amount of newspaper publicity it gets. Here is an instance of the way it conducts itself toward newspapers:

The Grand Circuit, the biggest trotting organization in the world, recently named its 1916 meeting dates, yet we dare say the Circuit didn't go to the trouble of sending those dates to a dozen of the thousand newspapers in the country. At the same meeting the organization adopted some new and important rules, but the stewards didn't send out the news to the newspapers in general. In a dozen other ways do the officials ignore the newspapers.

The trotting game has been losing in popularity through the past 20 years because the newspapers gradually have ceased giving it big space. A new generation has arisen during that period. If the trotting people had sought—and fought for—newspaper publicity they would have secured it and thus recruited to its thinning ranks many of the new generation. But they haven't.

Trotting Game Deserves Support.

The trotting game is one of the cleanest and squarest in the sporting world today. The men connected with it rank among the finest sportsmen in the country. The game itself is one of thrills; one that brings together that wonderful combination of man and thoroughbred animal; a real sport—the sport of kings! It is a game that should flourish; that should increase in popularity year after year. But it kind it seem unaware of the fact that newspaper publicity is life: because they lack an organized plan to get it.

The trotting officials probably feel that because theirs is a game that is straight and clean and thrilling it ought to get newspaper support without seeking it. They probably are unaware of the fact that the newspapers each day get three times as much sporting news from the publicity bureau of baseball, football, golf, tennis, boxing, etc., as they can print. Therefore, they are not in a mood to spend a lot of time pursuing trotting officials, who do not seem to want publicity anyway.

What the trotting game needs—and needs immediately—is a live publicity bureau; one that will keep the newspapers—all of them—informed at all times of the doings of the men and the horses connected with the light harness racing; one that will supply pictures and human interest stories and statistics, so that the public will know what the trotters and the pacers and their drivers and owners are doing and how well they are doing.

KINGSTON FIVE TO PLAY CRESCENTS

The many followers of amateur basketball in this city and vicinity will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the fastest games ever staged in this section when the crack Crescent Club and the fast Kingston Five clash at the local Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, February 9. That an intense amount of enthusiasm has been aroused is shown by the unusually large advance sale of tickets for the contest and arrangements have been completed for handling the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a game on the Y. M. C. A. court. Every available bit of space has been utilized to accommodate the rooters and the keen rivalry that has always existed between the members of both clubs has been extended to the friends and backers of the contending teams.

Many heated arguments are continually heard on all sides regarding the merit of the different players and in many cases the local rooters are backing up their favorites financially, with plenty of takers either way you choose to lay your funds. On paper the Crescents seem to have a shade the better of their opponents, due to their continued experience against crack teams and their being familiar with the style of play of each member of their team. Their past work has been perfected to a point worthy of professionals, while each and every one of the team has a good eye for the basket and are always dangerous when within shooting distance of the cage. They are fully conscious of being returned the winners and have little fear of the ultimate result of the game.

To offset the apparent advantage of the Crescents is that the Kingston Five are familiar with the Y. M. C. A. court, that being their home court and they are also used to the screen back boards. Coupled with the above knowledge the Kingston Five have demonstrated their ability as basketball tossers on numerous occasions. They have cleaned up every team of calibre in this section and only during the past week drubbed the crack High School team, breaking their continued record of victories. Every member of the Kingston Five is well known in athletic circles and are leaders in their class. Brown is a crack-a-jack guard, a great basketball shot and the teamer of the many art of self defense in the local Y. M. C. A. Craig has a city wide reputation as a roving center and also leads a class during the physical exercises held at the Y. M. C. A. Wenzel is a well known baseball pitcher and athlete, while Davis has been connected with every form of athletics held in the local gymnasium and Elmendorf have repeatedly shown their worth and taken all in all the Kingston Five is as good a representation of local athletes as could be gathered together on one club.

The following well known players will compose the lineup of the Crescents:

cents: Fox and Dittis, forwards; Spall, center; Murphy, Butler and Robinson, guards. Little need be said of this gathering of stars as they have been continually before the public for the past few years. Each and every member of both clubs are in the pink of condition and this first game of the series for the city championship should be well worth going a long way to witness. Owing to the fact that there will be no dancing after the game, only a small fee admission will be charged.
